THE GALLERY OF TIME 5,000 years of history at a glance

The Gallery of Time forms the heart of the Louvre-Lens. In an open space spanning 3,000 square metres, it presents more than 200 masterpieces from the rooms of the Musée du Louvre. You can follow a unique journey through art history and humankind stretching from the 4th millennium BC to the mid 19th century. Interweaving different eras, techniques and civilisations, the Gallery of Time enables you to discover or rediscover the Louvre's wonderful collections in a new light. Since 2021, it has also been home to eighteen works from Africa, the Americas and Oceania on loan from the Musée du Quai Branly.

TEMPORARY EXHIBITIONS A new experience every time

Each year, in a spectacular space covering 1,800 square metres, the Louvre-Lens organises two large exhibitions of international scope, which put into perspective a period, an artist, a civilisation or themes that span the history of art.

For each new exhibition, the Gallery is entirely transformed through a new creative and immersive exhibition design. Enjoy a new experience with each exhibition.

THE PARK A breathing space for visitors

The Louvre-Lens is more than just a museum, it is a museum-park.

From the outset, it was designed to be located on a site stretching across 20 hectares, designed by the landscape designer Catherine Mosbach, who worked in close collaboration with the agency SANAA.

This park is the obligatory point of entrance to the museum, but it also offers a breathing space for visitors. Every summer, the Parc en Fête event provides local residents with a festive, inter-generational programme centred on sport and the interaction with nature.

3 questions for Marie Lavandier, Director of the Louvre-Lens

© Musée du Louvre-Lens / F. Iovino

WHAT IS MEANT BY A MUSEUM FOR ALL?

The Louvre-Lens is a museum-park that is an invitation to reflection and dialogue, to contemplation and introspection, to discovery and conviviality. Aimed at visitors from all backgrounds, the museum is enriched with a culture of openness to others, basing its actions on participation, contribution and experience.

This museum laboratory has rethought the relationship between visitors, local inhabitants, works of art and place. It is that which guides all our educational initiatives, enabling us to reach out to visitors of all kinds. To achieve this, each visit is adapted to its audience, whether it consists of children, adults, people new to art and culture or those who are not. This museum for all turns your visit into a veritable experience.

WHAT ARE VISITORS SEEKING AT THE LOUVRE-LENS?

With its long gently curving lines and anodised aluminium facade that reflects the landscape, the Louvre-Lens's delicate volume of glass and light occupies the site of a former coal mine. It comes into view gradually, as you approach it through the surrounding park.

Through its architecture and its park and thanks to the programme of events on offer inside, the Louvre-Lens hints at escape, a restorative break and a moment of calm. Its amenities enable you to enjoy a day tailored to your needs: you can go for a stroll in the park, enjoy gourmet break in the cafeteria or restaurant, read in the library or shop in the bookshop and gift shop.

HOW CAN WE EXTEND OUR TRIP IN THE REGION?

There exists a whole ecosystem that serves to highlight the sometimes unsuspected riches of this coal mining region. Our region is home to many surprises and remarkable discoveries. The area is a land of history and it is this history that the tourist office in Lens-Liévin is committed to sharing with you. Your visit to the Louvre-Lens will enable you to enjoy trips that revolve around history, memorials, gastronomy and even sports. And if you wish to extend your stay, hotels and restaurants located near the Louvre-Lens, displaying the typical charm of the Hauts-de-France region, will offer you a warm and convivial welcome.
